

The Scream

You may recognise this painting. It is The Scream by Edvard Munch, a Norwegian Expressionist painter.

It was painted in 1893 and was very modern for its time.

We think that if Edvard Munch were alive today, this painting could reflect his feelings about Lockdown.

We would like you to create your own version, showing your feelings about the current lockdown, but using Munch's style.

You can draw, paint, use crayons, or anything else you have at home.

We look forward to seeing your creations!
